Links with a Great Past

THE Hon. Barnaby Howard, little son of Lord Strathcona and descendant of the great Canadian who was one of the founders of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is here shown embracing the small daughter of the Hon. Mrs. Arthur Howard in Hyde Park, London, England. Both children are living links with the great past when one of the major events in the history of Canada was in the making.

C.G.I.T. PROGRAM DRAWS CROWD

The program "Ripples," which was presented by the senior C.G.I.T. group on Friday night in the Elks hall, was very successful and a large crowd was on hand to witness the performance. The first part of the program consisted of "The Famous Kitchen Band," which played a number of popular songs. This was followed by songs and a dialogue, and Miss Audrey Evans gave a monologue of the sailors dance.

Following this part of the program the girls presented a four-act play, "Inlaws and Outlaws." The entire cast was feminine, twelve girls taking part.

The program closed with the singing of a number of C.G.I.T. songs, followed by "God Save the King."

The girls received very good support from the town and country and they will clear about $50 on the entertainment.

Following this program the Elks put on a dance, which was well attended.

CARBON SCOUTS MAKE PRESENTATION TO JAS. TAYLOR

The Scouts of Carbon held a farewell party last Wednesday evening in their club rooms, for James Taylor, who has been transferred to the Bank of Montreal at Acme. Mr. Taylor has acted as Scout Master during his stay here. The evening was spent in games, etc., after which a sumptuous repast was served. Following the refreshments Mr. Taylor was presented with a silver belt set in honor of his services as Scout Master. Jas. Gilbert made the presentation.

NUMBER OF FARMERS IN DISTRICT ON LAND

A number of the farmers in the district are taking advantage of the spring weather and are out on the land. Reports from the south are that a number of the farmers have already commenced seeding, although it is very early for this work. It is expected, however, that spring work will go ahead within the next week or ten days and it will not be long now until most of the farmers are following in the footsteps of the brethren from the south of the district.

GARDENS FOR THE KIDDIES

Let your children have a garden this year—a garden that is their very own. It need not necessarily be large, but teaching them to make the garden stuff grow and observing the results of attention and neglect, will fit them for the problems of farm life which many will encounter later.

Teach them to care for the tiny plants when they come up, to water them, weed them and shelter them from the heavy winds and storms. Let them compete with each other to see who can grow the first radish of

WEEKLY HEALTH BULLETIN Issued by Red Cross Society

Your Heart and Insurance

Welching about five-eighths of a pound and bulking about the size of the clenched fist, the heart is the central pump of the body, controlling the flow of its life stream. Beating at the normal rate of over seventy times a minute, the heart will pump five quarts of blood. Often it is beating faster and pumping twenty quarts a minute.

Isn't it worth a little thought and care to see that such a hard working engine is treated fairly?

One out of every three who are rejected for life insurance is refused because of a serious heart defect.

How is your heart?

Many of the signs which you may think mean heart disease can be caused by some other disorder. Indigestion, lung trouble and nervousness may cause a pain near the heart, shortness of breath, fainting and irregularity of beat. If you suffer any of these go at once to your doctor for an examination. He may tell you that you do not have heart trouble and will find out what is wrong.

If you do have something wrong with your heart, it is well to know it at an early stage when proper care may bring your heart back to health. In many cases heart trouble is curable. It has been said that the surest recipe for living to an old age is to find out that you have a disease and then take care of it.

The main causes of organic heart disease are rheumatism, certain contagious diseases of childhood, diphtheria, scarlet fever, etc., syphilis and improper habits of living.

No one else can do as much for your heart as you can. Keep it healthy by going to your doctor for an examination, by looking after infected tonsils or teeth, by eating the right foods, by taking the proper amount of exercise, by keeping body weight near to the normal and by not using tobacco or stimulants.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CARBON GOLF CLUB

The annual meeting of the Carbon Golf Club was held in the Municipal office on Tuesday night. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The following officers were elected for the year 1930:

President, J. J. Greenan; Vice-President, F. J. Bessant; Sec.-Treas., E. J. Rouleau; Executive Committee, the above officers with the addition of Messrs. A. F. McKibbin and Len Poxon.

A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring officers for their services during the past year.

The matter of cleaning off the fairways was discussed and it has been decided to have this work done immediately.

The meeting sanctioned the lease of the land used as a golf course and after some discussion the sub-lease of this land was left in the hands of the Executive Committee.

The question of fees for 1930 was also discussed and a motion passed making the fees the same as in former years, i.e. Gentlemen $5; Ladies $3; Students $1.

As soon as the sub-lease has been completed there will be considerable work done on the golf course. The greens are to be re-sanded and oiled and the course cleaned off, as well as many other improvements. There is a good season ahead of the Carbon Golf Club and many features are being planned for the year.

A PACK OF CARDS

Serves as Bible, Almanac and Common Prayer Book

Here is a story which has been told and retold for many many years in company when two or three have been gathered together. We had a copy passed on to us with the request that we publish it for the benefit of those who enjoy such stories. Naturally the story is supposed to be true but we offer no guarantee.

A private soldier by the name of Richard Lee was taken many years ago before a Magistrate of Glasgow, Scotland, for playing cards during divine service, and the account of it is given as follows:

A sergeant commanded the soldiers at church, and while there the parson read the prayers, and took the text. Those who had a Bible took it out, but this soldier had neither Bible nor Common Prayer Book, but pulling out a pack of Cards, he spread them before him. He first looked at one card and then at another. The sergeant of the company saw him, and said, Richard put the cards away; this is no place for them. "Never mind that," said Richard.

When the services were over the constable took Richard a prisoner, and brought him before the Magistrate. "Well," said the Magistrate, "What have you brought this soldier here for?" "For playing cards in church." "Well, soldier, what have you to say for yourself?" "Much, sir, I hope." "Very good! If not, I will punish you severely."

"I have been," said the soldier, "six weeks on the march. I have neither Bible nor Common Prayer Book. I have nothing but a pack of cards, and I hope to satisfy your Worship of the purity of my intentions." Then spreading the cards before the Bailie, he began with the ace.

"When I see the ace it reminds me there is but one God. When I see the deuce it reminds me of Father and son. When I see the three it reminds me of Father, Son and Holy Ghost. When I see the four it reminds me of the four evangelists that preached—Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. When I see the five it reminds me of the wise virgins that trimmed their lamps. There were ten, but five were shut off. When I see the six it reminds me that in six days the Lord made heaven and earth. When I see the seven it reminds me that on the seventh day God rested from the great work which he had made, and hallowed it. When I see the eight, it reminds me of the eight righteous persons who were saved when God destroyed the

There's "Gold" In The Golden Rule

A heading in a business magazine reads: "There's Gold In The Golden Rule," and the accompanying article proves it. There is no doubt that following the Golden Rule, in business as well as out of it, in the long run will be more profitable than otherwise, and by this we mean materially profitable. There is a principle recognized by modern business that the business man, to be permanently successful, must contribute to the profit and welfare of those who deal with him, those from whom he buys as well as those to whom he sells. And in a measure, this is recognition of the Golden Rule.

But here comes the rub. Is the Golden Rule observed, even to such a limited extent, for itself or for the "gold" which may be mined from it. Is it observed because it is the right thing to do or because it is the more expedient, the more profitable thing? Are we to "do unto others" from pure delight in the doing, or because we wish to have them do the same to us? The real beauty, and force, and advantage of the Golden Rule lie in our attitude toward it. Its efficacy is in itself and in what prompts us to practice it.

Just to follow the Golden Rule because there is "gold in it," would be much the same as being honest because it is the "best policy." Neither impulse would rate high among the things considered admirable. To follow the Golden Rule because it charts the inherently right course in our dealings with our fellows and because we wish to be and to do right, is in the highest degree commendable. But to follow it merely or chiefly because "there's gold in it" is—well, not something we would care to boast about. The greatest profit which comes from living the Golden Rule cannot be set down in dollars and cents.

Throughout Western Canada our people have very largely accepted and adopted the principle of co-operation in connection with their economic relations and business. Unfortunately, it is not quite so generally accepted and acted upon in other community relationships. The question, therefore, naturally arises: Has this acceptance of one of the principles found in the Golden Rule resulted from a belief that "there's gold in it," rather than from a conviction that co-operation is indeed the better way for all concerned? Have we established, and are we maintaining, our great co-operative enterprises solely on a dollar and cents basis, or are a majority of our people earnestly striving to, in this way, make some contribution to the welfare of others?

Many fine and lofty sentiments,—the sentiments of the Golden Rule,—have been uttered by advocates of co-operation, and we are convinced that scores of men and women have joined co-operative organizations, not because they felt that they themselves would reap any particular benefits, but because they felt such organizations would be the means of benefiting others and the country as a whole. They are practising the Golden Rule because they believe it to be right, not because there may be some "gold" in it for them.

And if co-operation is to live and continue as a vital force in the life and activities of this country, if it is to grow and develop as a great compelling influence and force, not only in an economic sense but in all our community life, it must be through a general acceptance of the view, and its practice in everyday life, that selfishness is wrong and unselfishness is right; that the welfare and happiness of others is our concern as well as theirs; that the Golden Rule is to be practised not because there is "gold" in it for us, but because it is the only correct rule by which to measure our lives and acts; that we must be honest with each other, not because it is "the best policy" but because it is right. If we expect others to accord honesty to us in our convictions, we must likewise recognize and believe in the honesty of convictions entertained by others.

True co-operation is founded on the Golden Rule. It is its underlying principle. It is the only foundation upon which our great co-operative organizations can safely build, not because there is "gold" in it for anybody, but because it is the only safe rule for human conduct and intercourse.

A Matter Of Opinion

It is announced that Ontario and Quebec are to have "new penitentiaries which will be models for the world." This brings to mind the presentment some years ago of a Brantford, Ontario, grand jury, in which it was stated that conditions at the local jail were such as to make it "one of the most desirable places of residence in the city."

Interesting Records

New Species Of Whitefish

Newly Discovered Member Of Finny Tribe Found In Manitoba

Discovery of a new species of whitefish in Clear Lake, Manitoba, is announced by A. Bajkov, of Manitoba University. The new species has been named Coregonus Odonoghuei, in honor of Dr. C. H. O'Donoghue, formerly of the faculty of Manitoba University. The newly-discovered fish is common in Clear Lake. It lives at a great depth during the summer, coming to the surface only in the spawning season.

DO YOU FEAR A HEARTY MEAL?

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Will Tone Up Your Stomach Making Mealtime a Pleasure

Are you afraid of meal-time? Does eating distress you? Would you rather go without food. That is the condition of many due entirely to indigestion. There can be no perfect digestion—hence no enjoyment of meal-time—unless you have rich, red blood. This pure blood is necessary to tone up your stomach and make it capable of properly digesting the food.

Many so-called stomach remedies merely try to digest your food for you. That is a mistake—nature should do that work and if nature does not do it serious results are bound to follow. Tone up your stomach by driving out the poisons that are in the blood. Make new rich blood and your appetite and digestion will soon be normal—meals will once more be a pleasure.

The one sure medicine to enrich the blood, restore strength and banish stomach trouble and indigestion is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Concerning them Mrs. Wm. J. Thompson, Brussels, Ont., says:—"For years I suffered with indigestion, headaches and dizzy spells. I tried a great many so-called remedies without relief. As a farmer's wife, with three little girls, it was almost impossible to be idle and I just dragged myself through my work. I suffered so I was actually afraid of meal time. A friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I had lost faith in ever being well again, I purchased a supply and began taking them. Gradually the dizziness and headaches left me. My appetite improved and soon I was able to enjoy my meals. I gained in weight and my health in general is better than it has been for years. I feel I owe much to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for they relieved me of all my misery."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Test Is Satisfactory

The annual retest of the herds in the Fraser Valley, B.C., for T.B. is being carried on at present by about twenty veterinarians. More than half of all the dairy cows in the province (55,000) are located within this area and in the last test only three quarters of one per cent. re-tested.

The worms that infest children from their birth are of two kinds, those that find lodgement in the stomach and those that are found in the intestines. The latter are the most destructive, as they cling to the walls of the intestines and if not interfered with work havoc there. Miller's Worm Powders dislodge both kinds and while expelling them from the system serve to repair the damage they have caused.

Town Planning Advantage Shown

An Attractive Community Depends Greatly Upon The Appearance Of Its Streets

The following advantages that accrue from a systematic effort at town planning are given by Mr. Stewart Young, of the Town Planning Department of the Saskatchewan Government:

The general appearance of any community is most important, and if ways and means by which more agreeable surroundings can be produced are analyzed, it will be found that an attractive community depends greatly upon the appearance of its streets.

The appearance of a business street may be marred by the use of the sidewalks for storage or advertising purposes. Curb gasoline pumps do not add to the appearance of any street and should be prohibited. Electric light and telephone wires, when placed on a street tend to give it a ragged appearance. They should be placed underground in conduits or on lanes.

The appearance of the residential streets of any community reflects the mental attitude of the citizens. Every community should have a definite policy in respect of tree planting on residential streets. The boulevard system should be used.

Usually a sidewalk four and a half feet in width placed at a distance of about two feet from the street line with a graded roadway about twenty-four feet in width is sufficient to accommodate all traffic on residential streets. The intervening space between the sidewalk and the vehicular traffic way should be planted with trees spaced about twenty feet apart, and alternated slow and fast growing.

Several advantages are to be gained by this method of planting. Fast growing trees mature in a period of from twenty to twenty-five years, at the end of which time the slow growing tree has reached a stage where it becomes useful. Moreover, insects seldom attack more than one variety of tree in a season. The result is obvious where a street is planted entirely with one variety of trees.

It is a far cry from the slow-moving, primitive, high-wheeled cart, hauled by oxen along the roads of Ceylon, to a speedy aeroplane in the winter sky over Lake Erie, but many of the people of Pelee Island are now drinking tea, carried there by air, that joggled along in an ox-cart under a tropical sun in Ceylon only a few weeks ago.

The Salada Tea Company, because of the freezing over of Lake Erie, between Pelee and the mainland, recently shipped several hundred pounds of tea by air, in order to replenish the diminishing stock of a certain grocer on the island.

Apple Trees For Prairie Farms

Sixteen Varieties Of Apples Found Suitable For the West

After fifteen years of seed planting the experimental work of the Dominion Department of Agriculture has developed sixteen varieties of apple trees suited to the climatic conditions of the Prairie Provinces. Of these varieties two have been graded "very good" and four "good." Horticultural experts point out, however, that it will take several more tree generations to evolve the ideal species. Prairie farmers can help in this work by getting seed from the Experimental Station at Morden, Man., for planting in their own gardens.

SOW YOUR SEED IN SUITABLE SOIL

"The greatest tragedy of agriculture," says the Market Examiner, "is to see a farmer, year after year, cropping his land to wheat, which is unfit for wheat." This is so with many of the farmers throughout the prairie provinces. Every year there is a certain acreage in each district that is sown to wheat, when this land would be better suited to oats or barley.

This editorial goes on to say "The first practical task of the practical farmer is to make a soil survey of his farm. If he is not able to do it capably, he should have it done by some one with the capacity to give him a true survey.

"If certain areas of his farm are better suited to grass, it should be cross-fenced and seeded partly to grass. If the land is better adapted to oats or barley than to wheat, grow oats and barley and convert the crop into cash by way of livestock fed on this oats and barley. Soils have characteristics, just the same as breeds of horses have, or breeds of cattle."

TOWN DEVELOPEMENT

It used to be frequently said in the smaller towns, that it is the business of a good citizen to mind his own business, keep out of debt and avoid breaking the laws. It was commonly thought that if he did that, it was about all that could be expected of him, and he was conforming to the ideals of good citizenship.

But a community's developement cannot be promoted in these times on any such limited basis. The fact that so many small town people still have this spirit, and expect to get along without doing anything particular to boost community movements, is one of the principal reasons why some towns do not get ahead faster.

Some must take hold and carry on the work of the churches and fraternal societies. Some of the men with a special head for business need to work in some organization for the commercial and other needed development of the community. Some need to work in clubs for educational purposes, and for more interesting social activities. There is something that each one should do and we must all take hold to do something in these public lines, if we expect that a town is going to keep up with the game.

People should not act as if they were making a great sacrifice if they devote a little of their time to such purposes. We should love our home town so much, we should be so ambitious to see it go ahead, we should be so conscious of the gains that people who have initiative or ability or industry, should be willing to give some time each week to helping forward such causes.

three sons and their wives. When I see the nine it reminds me of the nine lepers that were cleansed by our Saviour. There were nine out of ten who never returned thanks. When I see the ten it reminds me of the ten commandments which God handed down to Moses on the tables of stone. When I see the King it reminds me of the great King of Heaven, which is God Almighty. When I see the Queen it reminds me of the Queen of Sheba, who visited Solomon, for she was as wise a woman as he was a man. She brought fifty boys and fifty girls all dressed in boys' apparel for King Solomon to tell which were girls and which were boys. The King sent for water for them to wash. The girls washed to the elbows and the boys to the wrists; so King Solomon told by that.

"Well," said the Bailie, "you have described every card in the pack but one. That is the Knave."

"I will give your honor a description of that too, if you will not be angry." "I will not," said the Bailie,
"if you do not term me to be the Knave." "The greatest Knave I know of is the constable who brought me here." "I do not know if he is the greatest Knave, but he is the greatest fool," said the Bailie.

"When I count how many spots there are in a pack of cards I find 365, as many days as there are in a year. When I count the number of cards in a pack I find 52, the number of weeks in a year. I find there are twelve pictures in a pack, representing the number of months in a year, and on counting the tricks I find 13—the number of weeks in a quarter. So you see a pack of cards serves for a Bible, Almanac, and Common Prayer Book."

You can depend on advertised products

Advertising is the most powerful searchlight known to business.
It focuses the attention of a community or a continent on a particular product. It gives that product the advantages of a widespread test by the buying public. But it cannot persuade that public to buy any article it has tested and found wanting. Manufacturers and merchants know this. They know also that advertising an unworthy product does only one thing: It brings magnified attention to its deficiencies. Therefore, before they undertake extensive or consistent advertising, they make sure that their product is right.

Consistent advertising is your best assurance of value and worth. It is fair evidence that the advertising is offering a good product which has been thoroughly tested and approved.

Saskatchewan Will Fight Cancer Scourge

Legislation Provides For Commission To Administer Act and For Diagnostic Clinics

Saskatchewan, first of Canadian provinces, has made preparations to tackle the growing menace of cancer as a public health problem.

The necessary machinery is provided in a Bill to establish a permanent Cancer Commission in the province, which has just been passed by the Saskatchewan Legislature. In this advanced legislation, Hon. F. D. Munroe, M.D., Minister of Public Health, in the Co-operative Government, has enhanced the already high prestige of Saskatchewan in matters pertaining to the public health. Incidentally, too, he has, thus early in his ministerial career, ensured himself of a permanent niche in Canada's hall of medical fame.

In piloting his first major legislation through the House, Hon. Mr. Munroe emphasized the necessity of co-ordinating efforts and providing the means to combat the scourge. Backing his arguments with a wealth of statistical information, the minister emphasized the fact that a comprehensive anti-cancer programme must provide three main features: The education of the public, facilities for diagnosis and the means for treatment. All three factors are provided for in the new Act.

Stressing the importance of the educational factor, Hon. Dr. Munroe declared that "the one great handicap under which all physicians labor at the present time is the delay on the part of the patient in consulting them." Early diagnosis and treatment were essential requirements of a successful campaign, he added.

Provision is made in the Act for the establishment of consultative diagnostic clinics in the province wherein facilities will be provided for early diagnosis of the disease. Then, in order to overcome the prohibitive cost of radium required for treatment, statistics relative to the efficacy of which were cited, the Act provides for the purchase of a quantity of radium by the Government.

In discussing this phase of the matter, Dr. Munroe stated that "radium is used in the treatment of cancer in two ways. In the great majority of cases the radium salt is used in various types and forms of containers and needles, but there is also a field for its use in the form of gas. The gas is collected from a quantity of the radium salt in solution, into very minute tubes of gold, called 'seeds.' A somewhat elaborate apparatus is required to generate and purify this gas and, as well, to collect it and regulate the dosage in each seed.

The minister then stated that it was proposed to establish an emanation plant of this nature at the University of Saskatchewan, whenever there was assurance of a sufficient demand for the gold seeds to keep the plant in operation. Dr. Munroe stated, in this connection, that medical men in neighboring provinces and in Alberta already had informed him they would welcome the opportunity of procuring these seeds. The Act also makes provision for the regulation of the sale of radium emanations and derivatives.

Operation of the Act will be assigned to a permanent Cancer Commission.

One and one-half grammes of radium will be procured, according to present intentions, at a cost of $105,000 to $115,000. It is not, however, the intention that the diagnosis and treatment of cancer will be a free service, but definite assurance was given by the Minister that the charges would be reasonable and that provision would be made so that "every one may receive the necessary service able to pay for it or not."

THE LAW OF THE CROSS

Golden Text: "If any man would come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me."—Matthew 16:24.

Lesson: Matthew 16:13 to 17:27. Devotional Reading: Isaiah 53: 7-12.

Explanations and Comments

The Law of the Cross, verse 21.—Before this Jesus had referred to his approaching death (Matthew 9:15; John 2:18-22; 3:14), but from now on He spoke plainly about it, declaring that He must go to Jerusalem, there to be ill-treated by elders and chief priests and scribes, and be put to death. "He must die because He would save. The great 'must' which ruled His life was a cable of two strands—obedience to the Father, and love of men. These haled Him to the cross, and fastened Him there. This verse covers an indefinite time, during which Jesus gradually spoke about His coming sufferings. Ordinarily we exaggerate the suddenness and therefore the depth of Peter's fall, by supposing it took place immediately after his confession."—Alexander MacLaren.

"And the third day to be raised up." The Evangelists, indeed, write it down in plain language, as fully taught by their later experience, that He was to be rejected by the rulers of Israel, slain, and to rise again the third day. And there can be as little doubt that Christ's language (as afterwards they looked back upon it), must have clearly implied all this, as that at the time they did not fully understand it. Otherwise they could not afterwards have been in such doubt about His death and resurrection. He was so constantly in the habit of using symbolic language, and had only lately reproved them for taking what He said about "the heaven" in a literal, which He had meant in figurative sense, that it was but natural they should have regarded in the same light, announcements which, in their strict literality, would seem to them well-nigh incredible. They could well understand His rejection by the scribes as a sort of figurative death, or violent suppression of His claim and doctrines, and then, after briefest periods, their resurrection as it were, but not those terrible details in their full literalness."—Alfred Ederheim.

The Law Of the Cross For All Disciples, verses 24-26.—Then Jesus said unto His disciples, "If any man would come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me." Not only must Jesus, Himself, endure the cross, but Peter (and all true followers) must be ready to deny himself, yield his will to his Master's, and take up his cross, accept the persecution in store for him, and follow his Master.

DEVELOP PUBLIC OPINION ALONG PEACEFUL LINES

Ottawa, Ont.—Contribution of moneys to Canadian universities for establishment of chairs in international relations is a field in which it might be better for the Dominion Government not to intervene, believes Dr. O. D. Skelton, under-secretary of state for foreign affairs. Dr. Skelton spoke before the House of Commons committee on industrial and international relations.

His comments referred to a resolution of Miss Agnes McPhail (Prog., South East Gray), asking that for every $100 disbursed by the Canadian Government for war, $1 should be spent for promotion of peace. The resolution favors setting up a chair of international relations and institution of international scholarships in each Canadian university.

Cost of establishing such chairs was set at $3,200,000 by Dr. Skelton in answer to a question by A. W. Neill (Ind., Comox-Alberni).

Dr. Skelton thought that in some cases establishment of chairs of international relations would be desirable, but in most instances he believed it more useful to develop general knowledge of social science.

The question of what the Dominion Government should do in the way of establishing additional scholarships found Dr. Skelton of the opinion that, so much having already been done by individual and organized effort, the way was clearly indicated that this system should be continued.

As far as he could see, there were three specific points developed by the parliamentary debate. One was to ascertain how public opinion could be developed to deal with the big task thrust upon the people of Canada and what part the Dominion Government should play in shaping that public opinion. A second was how to train personnel in the conduct of international relations and what part the government should take in the training of that personnel.

The third envisaged the agencies the government should develop for carrying on the immediate and direct tasks of conducting the relations of foreign and inter-imperial governments.

Dr. Skelton felt that the elementary and secondary schools could do much to humanize the training of youth in international matters.

Another element was the press. A survey of the press of Canada, said Dr. Skelton, was not disheartening. It would compare very favorably with that of most countries, and the information supplied by the Canadian press was not only adequate but probably less biased and more objective than that published in the press of a great many other countries. The fact that in the past two years there had been established press bureaus in London, Paris and Washington indicated how much the press was contributing to the general knowledge of international matters.

Other factors in developing public opinion were the movies and radio. These were if anything "too international." International travel also furnished many opportunities for broadening the outlook of Canadian people.

Many organizations were doing valuable work. Such were the Association of Canadian Clubs, the Institute of International Relations, the Canadian Problems Society and the League of Nations Society.

Besides all these factors the Dominion Government and parliament did much through the utterances of its members. He did not approve of the Dominion Government entering into organized propaganda with a view to moulding public opinion.

One of the ways in which the government could help would be through aid to the league of nations society. The government might supply material to schools and colleges on international relations, but on the whole the task of developing public opinion was one for voluntary organized effort.

British Coal For Canada

Tonnage Chartered For Trade Says British Minister Of Employment

London, Eng.—Very considerable orders for British anthracite and soft coal have been obtained in Canada, said Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, lord privy seal and minister of employment, in the House of Commons. The minister was questioned by Sir Kingsley Wood, Conservative member for West Woolwich, who asked if anything had been done to secure westbound cargoes for the grain boats coming from the Dominion. Sir Kingsley suggested coal as the most natural article of cargo exchange.

"Yes sir," replied Mr. Thomas quickly, "my information is that very considerable orders for British anthracite and soft coal have been obtained in the Dominion and I am able to announce that a substantial volume of tonnage has been chartered for this trade to commence with the opening of the St. Lawrence to navigation."

Amendment Is Lost

House Of Commons Defeat Amendment To Bill Providing For Divorce Courts

Ottawa, Ont.—The House of Commons defeated the amendment of Thomas McMillar, Liberal member for South Huron, to the Woodsworth Bill providing for divorce courts in Ontario, by twenty votes. The vote stood: for 88, against 108.

The amendment expressed regret at the spread of divorce in Canada, and advised a campaign to foster the idea of the sanctity of the home in the Dominion.

After the vote on the amendment, there were calls for a vote on the main motion. Mr. Speaker Lemieux ruled that as the private members' hour had expired, it would not be possible to take this vote if any one objected. George Spotton, Conservative, North Huron, objected, so the vote was put over until another sitting.

Overseas Wireless Phone

Direct Wireless Telephone Service Between Canada and Britain Is Contemplated

Ottawa, Ont.—Confirmation of the statement of Hon. H. B. Lees-Smith, British postmaster-general, respecting the contemplated establishment of a direct wireless telephone service between Canada and Great Britain was obtained from officials of the Department of Marine. So far, however, the matter has not gone beyond the negotiation stage.

When the system is established it will operate through the Marconi beam wireless at Drummondville, Que., from where the transmission will be direct to Rugby, England. This circuit has been operating experimentally for the last year. It was employed recently in the broadcast of the King's speech at the opening of the naval disarmament conference. Officials were unable to say when the system will be inaugurated commercially.

Opened Exhibition By Radio

Genoa, Italy.—Short radio waves cutting across the Atlantic, America and the Pacific carried the voice of Marquis Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless, from his yacht Electra here, to Sydney, Australia, to open the electrical exposition there.

Buchanan is shown delivering to a Canadian Pacific Expressman, was mailed eight hours previously at Calgary and had therefore travelled at the rate of more than 100 miles an hour to reach Winnipeg, its destination.

Millions For Good Roads

Saskatchewan Government Has Ambitious Program For This Season

Regina, Sask.—Nearly seven millions will be spent on Saskatchewan roads this season, it was announced in the legislature by Hon. A. C. Stewart, K.C., Minister of Highways, during the course of the debate on the budget.

The total of $6,852,386 is to be divided as follows: On trunk highways, $2,963,585; gravel surfacing, $3,373,801; sundry grading, $395,000; colonization roads, $120,000. The latter refers to roads in newer districts of the province, part of the scheme of the new Anderson government.

Mr. Stewart assured the members that there was no intention on the part of the government to create a highways commission or of abandoning the present department of highways. Roads of the province, their construction and maintenance, would remain as they had always done, under the direct control of the minister.

British Companies Interested

May Invest In Oil Fields and Later Build Steel Mill

Calgary, Alberta.—Laying down of a million dollar stock and oil-well drilling and operating equipment in Calgary during the coming summer and later establishment of a steel mill in this city or at Vancouver if the market proves sufficiently attractive are being recommended to the large British financial and manufacturing interests represented by R. A. Raymont. Mr. Raymont has spent some time looking over the market provided by the Turner Valley field.

While declining to give out the names of the British companies which are interested, he stated that they are in a position to handle Canadian business in practically unlimited volume. And it was possible that a merger of a number of well-known firms engaged in the iron and steel manufacturing industry may be formed with a subsidiary Canadian company to handle the business in the Dominion.

Purchase Earncliffe

British Government To Spend $125,000 For High Commissioner's Residence In Canada

London, Eng.—The governmental estimates for the coming year, tabled in the House of Commons, provide the sum of $125,000 for the purchase and adaptation of the British high commissioner's residence in Ottawa, "Earncliffe."

Buildings in use by the diplomatic service will prove rather costly this year. The new Washington embassy will account for the expenditure of $170,000. The Tokio embassy, destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt at a cost of $330,000. The embassy at Moscow will call for $100,000.

SHORT LINE TO THE PAS WILL BE OPENED SOON

Winnipeg, Man.—Construction work on the Sturgis-Hudson Bay Junction branch line of the Canadian National will be finished about May 18, and the line will be turned over to the operating department on that date. An announcement to this effect was made by A. E. Warren, western vice-president of the Canadian National.

A very considerable saving in time and distance between Southern Saskatchewan and the Hudson Bay Railway will result with the completion of this line and the opening of it for regular freight and passenger service. Between Regina, Moose Jaw and other southern points in Saskatchewan there will be a lessening of 94.6 miles over the existing route from those centres to The Pas.

Intermediate points such as Melville and Yorkton will also be brought considerably nearer to The Pas and the Hudson Bay Railway.

Until the Sturgis-Hudson Bay Junction line goes into operation the route from Regina to Hudson Bay Junction is via Swan River, a distance of 429.6 miles. The distance by way of the new route which lies through Melville, Yorkton and Canora will be 335 miles.

Passenger and freight train services are now under consideration by the departments concerned and it is not expected that an announcement on train service will be made for a few weeks.

The Sturgis-Hudson Bay Junction line was one of those included in the three-year branch line program which was passed by parliament in 1927. Although it is practically the last item on that program to be completed the date upon which it is to be turned over for operation is more than six months ahead of that set by the bill.

Hon. Dr. Godfrey Will Stand Pat Over Famous Postscript Episode

Toronto.—Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health for Ontario, has reiterated his stand that he will not resign because of the public rebuke administered to him in the legislature by Premier G. H. Ferguson, over the now famous "postscript episode." He also denied a rumor that he will take a long vacation. "Both are a pile of dreams," he declared.

It was for his action in adding a postscript to a letter written to a constituent of his in which an application for a mother's allowance, made by a woman residing in Long Branch, was refused.

The postscript reads as follows: "See her if you can and get her support the 30th (election day), and we will be able to take more time with the case."

Geographical Features Named After Indian Chiefs Are Numerous From Coast To Coast

Geographical features named after Indian chiefs are numerous in Canada. It is exactly 100 years since the first appearance on a map of the name Petawawa. According to the records of the Geographic Board of Canada, Petawawa River occurs on a map made in 1829 by Colonel John By, who built the Rideau Canal.

The name is now applied to the military camp on the Petawawa River in Renfrew County, Ontario. The Indian chief, Petawawa, is said to have hunted in the region and the meaning of the name is "the sound is coming" or "approaching sound."

In some cases an Indian has been commemorated by a name given him by the whites. There are several examples of this nature in New Brunswick, where Barnaby River, Eartibog River, Cain River, and Taxis River bear the names of Indian chiefs who once lived on these streams.

In Quebec the town of Donnacona recalls the "Lord of Canada," who was taken to France by Jacques Cartier, in 1536, and died there. In Manitoba, Peguis post office takes its name from a Saulteaux chief who, in 1835, was granted an annuity of $25 by the Hudson's Bay Company. He was a friend of the colonists of the Red River Settlement (Winnipeg), and well disposed towards the whites.

In Saskatchewan, Cutknife Hill, according to tradition, commemorates a Sarcee who was killed on it in battle with Crees. In Alberta, Crowfoot Village, Mekasto railway station, and Chiniki Lake, are a tribute to the worth of Indian chiefs who on the coming of white men ceded their title to vast acres and forsook tribal warfare. Crowfoot, head chief of the Blackfeet, was a keen business man, not a warrior, who kept his tribe at peace with the whites. Mekasto, or Red Crow, head chief of the Southern Bloods, was loyal throughout the 1885 rebellion. Chiniki was a S'oney Indian chief.

Kanaskis pass, in the Rockies, commemorates an Indian who made a wonderful recovery from the blow of an axe. Pouce-Coupe River, in Alberta and British Columbia bears the name of a Beaver Indian chief who settled on the river with 500 followers.

The name is French for "cut thumb." In British Columbia, Kinbasket Lake, an expansion of the Columbia River, was so named in 1866 by Walter Moberly, C.E., after a Shuswap Indian chief who was of service to him on an exploratory trip. Nicola Lake commemorates an Indian chief whose other name, Nwistemeekin, meaning "walking grizzly bear," well describes his character.

To Grow Early Potatoes

B.C. Association Imports Certified Seed From Prince Edward Island

For the purpose of supplying the prairie markets with early potatoes, some fifty farmers on Lulu Island, British Columbia, have formed the Richmond Early Potato Growers' Association. Each member will put in a special plot of two or three acres of early potatoes, which will be planted simultaneously at the end of the present month, so that they will be ready for market at the same time. Irish Cobbler has been selected as the variety to use and a car-load of certified seed has been imported from Prince Edward Island.

Plant Clean Seed

Need For Planting Clean Seed This Year Is Greater Than Ever Before

You may not always be able to afford finest quality registered seed for planting; but you can always afford clean seed for planting. The seed branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture are urging the planting of clean seed this year more than ever before—clean seed pays, particularly with the weed menace reaching the alarming proportions it does in many parts of Canada today.

There are many effective ways of cleaning seed, depending upon the quantity to be cleaned, location and equipment. In many parts of Canada seed cleaning machinery is readily available for the purpose, while in others suitable screens can be adapted to the fanning mill, and in some of the more remote sections the old pioneer method of wind-cleaning is always available.

Completing Dairy Survey

Dr. Misener, of Cornell University, N.Y., has returned to his work, after completing the field work of a survey of the dairy industry of Saskatchewan. J. K. Finlayson, of the Saskatchewan Markets Branch, has gone to Cornell with him, where he will complete the summarization of the facts and figures, which will occupy about two months.

"To attain happiness," says a lecturer, "one must vibrate in tune with one's environment."

According to that, a man with St. Vitus Dance at a jazz concert would be in perfect bliss.

The photograph here shows Col. W. G. Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., with bar, who was instantly killed in Ottawa, when his aeroplane stalled at a low altitude and crashed to the ground. Col. Barker was one of the greatest of Canada's war aces, having 52 enemy aeroplanes to his credit.

Three Hundred Millions Spent By American Tourists In Canada During Year 1929

Hard Legal Problem

English Magistrates Puzzled Over Definition Of "Farmer"

What is a farmer?

Hundreds of people who gain their livelihood from their own land in the counties of England are affected by that legal question.

Large sums of money, too, are involved, for dependent on the answer to the problem is the amount of rates which may, or may not, have to be paid by the men and women who consider themselves "farmers" in the legal sense.

Is, for example, a bee-keeper a farmer? Can a keeper of chickens be called a farmer?

One side of the difficulty has been settled by the Oxfordshire Quarter Sessions in considering a rating appeal—the first case of its kind. The magistrates at the Oxford County Hall decided that a bee-keeper was a farmer, and, as such was entitled to have his home rated as a "farmhouse."

Christopher Bartlett, of Sandford Mount, Charlbury, appealed to the quarter sessions against the assessment of his house, because he was a bee-keeper. His house had been assessed at £100, whereas he maintained that as a farmhouse the assessment should not be more than £40.

"He is the largest bee-farmer in England," said E. Gorst, counsel for Mr. Bartlett. "His home has been assessed as a country house, whereas it is used by a man who is working an agricultural holding and is therefore a farmhouse in fact."

Dr. Earegey, counsel for the rating authority, and one of the foremost barristers on the Oxford circuit, submitted that bee-keeping was not farming. R. T. Barrie, the rating officer for the Chipping Norton Council, gave evidence that, in his opinion, £100 was the fair and proper assessment for Sandford Mount.

Eventually the magistrates upheld the appeal of Mr. Bartlett, and fixed the assessment of his home at £60—a reduction of £40 from the former rateable value.

A New Society

What is declared to be the hardest-thinking society in the world has been formed in Europe. It is "The Puzzlers' League," and has on its rolls enigma experts, wizards of the cryptogram, the crossword and the charade. The motto of the society is: "Puzzle solving fights off boredom, the greatest enemy of the human race."

Gold from the south washes over the international boundary in great waves as soon as the tourist season begins. The year 1929, for which figures were just made public, was the best on record. Practically 300 millions were spent in Canada last year by tourists.

Canadian tourists in other countries, mainly the United States, were also generous with their cash, keeping in mind the Dominion's small population. One hundred and eleven millions were spent by Canadians in other countries, according to bureau of statistics' estimates.

The balance of tourist business in Canada's favor, amounting to some 189 millions, was twice as great as the adverse trade balance (visible balance) for 1929.

The expenditure grows by leaps and bounds. Automobile tourists from the United States spent $26,000,000 more last year than in 1928, and steamer and train tourists another $8,000,000 more.

When tourists' expenditures are added to "visible" trade figures with the United States, expenditures here to exports, and Canadian expenditure there to imports, the present difference of $350,000,000 in favor of the United States is cut in half.

Less than a decade ago (1920) the expenditures of tourists in Canada was calculated at $83,000,000.

Oldest Trainman

Canada's Oldest Trainman Celebrates Birthday at Truro, N.S.

Claiming to be Canada's oldest trainman, Robert Williams, of Truro, N.S., rounded out the ninety-one mark on March 1st. He was born at West River, Antigonish County, Nova Scotia, March 1, 1839, and when seventeen years old got a job on the construction of the Nova Scotia Railway. Feeling the call of the sea, he joined a sailing vessel and rounded "The Horn." On a trip from Liverpool, England, with troops for a far-off station, his ship was wrecked while rounding "The Horn," and he was among the 49 saved. Once he fell forty feet from the rigging and broke an arm and also injured an eye. In the early seventies, he decided to give up the sea, and, in 1874, joined the service of the Intercolonial Railway, now part of the Canadian National Railways System, and retired on pension in 1910, at the age of seventy-one.

Russian Bees Stingless

Entomologists Have Proved This After Three Years' Experiment

That everything from Russia is not dangerous was established with the announcement that Russian bees do not sting. This was the result of three years' experimenting at the agricultural station at New Brunswick.

The bees from Russia produce as much honey as Italian bees, but swarm less frequently, it was said. During the entire experimentation period neither Ray Hutton nor B. F. Diggers, entomologists at the station, ever were stung.

Jim replied, as he put a generous slice of shortcake on Grandma's plate: "You're right. The committee thought the fireworks would bring a crowd to the supper, and took up a collection for the cause. They got two dollars out of me, and I don't intend to miss the show. I tell you what, Grandma! you needn't miss it, either. I'll take you down in the car soon as it gets dark."

"My soul!" breathed Grandma. "I haven't been out in the evening since I don't know when. I don't know what Charmian would say, or the doctor either, but," recklessly, "I'm going to do it! You finish up that shortcake, Jim. It's no good left over and 'twould be a shame to waste it. Charmian made it after Emmy Bascomb's recipe, and it's worth feeling a little sick next day over. Pour me another cup of tea, son. I must be fortified if I'm going gallivanting all the evening. I haven't got any green hat," she added with a twinkle, "but I'll wear my Sunday bonnet and put Great-grandmother Davis's gray crepe shawl over my coat, so you won't feel ashamed of your company. That shawl came clear from China, and a summer boarder who stopped in one day for a skein of embroidery silk, offered me three hundred dollars for it when she saw it hanging over my chair.

Jim whistled expressively as he arose to clear the table.

"I'd like to see the shawl I'd refuse three hundred for!"

"So would I," agreed Grandma, "but Charmian was mad at the woman for even offering it. She's got the Davis pride. You can set the dishes in the sink, Jimmy; and I'll go get ready if you'll help me into the north room. There's that dog again with another bone! I'd like to see where he's planning to put it, but there isn't time. It looks as if Gypsy was something of a miser; but at any rate, he won't be dependent on his relations in his old age! Here, Jimmy, lend me a hand. I'm all excited."

"So'm I," said Jim, "going out with a new girl this way!"

Grandma chuckled. "Say!" she called, as leaving her at the door of the north room, Jim departed toward the kitchen. "Charmian said to leave the dishes in the sink; but you'd better set that pat o' butter in the ice-box, and the cream, too. I'll be ready in a jiffy. Maybe I'll lie abed all day tomorrow to pay for it; but what's the use o' living if you aren't reckless once in a dog's age?"

"No use at all," grinned Jim, "and now you've set my feet on the downward path I don't care if I paint the town red. Take your time about getting ready, Grandma. There's not a bit of hurry."

He was still in the kitchen when the old lady appeared at the door again.

"My sakes! you've washed all those dishes!" she exclaimed, "and the dish towel, too. You'll make some woman a good husband, Jimmy, I'll say that."

"Aren't you ashamed, vamping a young feller this way," Jim bantered, as he wiped his hands on the roller towel. "Here, you hang onto me till I get you safe in that car. What'll I do with the door key, Grandma? Take it along?"

"You put it under the door mat, just where anybody who comes along'll know where to look for it," she responded whimsically. "It's a lovely evening, isn't it? I wouldn't mind riding a little way before the fireworks, if we've got time."

"Plenty of time. We'll run round past the Bascombs so you can see Emmy's new windows. They look corking."

Grandma sighed. There it was again—the thing that kept Charmian from loving this nice boy. He couldn't see that those big panes of glass no more fitted the old Bascomb house than she herself would fit that cheap new bungalow by the station.

"I don't want to see Emmy's windows," she replied, as the engine started. "They don't belong in that old house; but I'd admire to ride round the cemetery till it's time for the show. I haven't seen the monument that Deacon Purdie put up for his fourth wife. It's dreadfully expensive burying four wives, Jimmy. I suppose if he'd foreseen how things were going he could have had 'em all engraved on one stone, and saved a sight."

"If he's not careful," Jim responded soberly, "he'll have to invest in a bigger lot or be crowded out himself when his turn comes. They say he's making up to the Widow Moore, over to South Wickfield."

"My stars!" cried Grandma. "She must be thirty years younger than Edgar Purdie, and has got six children!"

"Sure!" smiled Jim, as he slowed up on entering the cemetery gate. "If those kids should all pass out in an epidemic, Grandma, we'd have to call a town meeting and enlarge the cemetery."

"I'm afraid," said the old lady, trying her best to look severe, "that you're making light of serious things, Jim."

"It sure is serious burying a widow."

"It sure is serious marrying a widow. Here we are, Grandma. It's almost too dark for you to see it, but that's where the deacon laid his Sarah. Want to get out?"

"Good land, no! I can see well enough from here; but I wish you'd tell me what's engraved on the stone, Jimmy. The deacon always puts on some sentiment. The first one was, 'The price of a good woman is above rubies,' though every one in town knew he begrudged the money for the medicine that Edward Howe prescribed in Emma's last sickness. For his second (she was Carrie Hopkins, from over Templeton way, and could stir up as much trouble at a parish meeting as if she'd thrown a hornet's nest into the vestry), he put 'Blessed are peacemakers.' And when Eva, his third, was taken without leaving a friend in Wickfield because of her sharp tongue, he had engraved for her, 'A good name is better than precious ointment.' I declare, Jim, I've been curious to know what he'd say for Sarah. They fought like cats and dogs."

"I'll allay that curiosity in two minutes," promised Jim, as he alighted and crossed the patch of grass on the Purdie lot. He was shaking his head soberly when he returned and said: "It looks to me, Grandma, as if the deacon had run out of Scripture verses and taken to the poets. He says of his last departed, 'A sweeter woman ne'er drew breath.' Can you beat that?"

"No," Grandma admitted gravely, "I can't, and I won't try. Seems sort o' like tempting Providence, uttering untruths like that, especially on a tombstone. While I've been sitting here, Jim, it came over me what he might say about Luella Moore, if she was taken first: 'I have commanded a widow woman there to sustain thee.' What you grinning about, sonny? It would be the truth, which is more'n the others are."

"That's right," said Jim, as he resumed the place beside her. "Or if he wants a change from the Scriptures, as we might suspect after what he says about Sarah, he could just put 'An old man's darling,' and be done with it."

Grandma endeavored not to laugh, but at last gave way to her natural impulse.

"I ought to be ashamed, thinking such thoughts and letting a boy like you think 'em too," she said regretfully, "but I never could bear Ed Purdie. He was a mean boy, always putting snakes and toads down the girls' backs; and once he hung little Willie Kingsbury down the school-house well by the heels, and the child was never the same again. My! isn't that bed of pansies handsome? Is it time for the fireworks to begin?"

"It's time we were finding a place to park; but we mustn't get so near that the sparks will fall on that three-hundred-dollar shawl! You warm enough, Grandma? If I let you take a cold, Charmian will give me fits."

"She's liable to have fits herself if she sees me out this time o' night," chuckled the old lady. "Let's stop near the church, Jim, so I'll see her face when she comes out and finds me. Here we are at the common, and Ezra Bascomb is bringing out a box—fireworks most likely. That's right," as Jim stopped at the head of the Common. "This is a splendid place to see. And there's Charmian, and Doctor Carter along with her. Hasn't he got fine straight legs, Jimmy? There! he sees us. They're coming this way!"

CHAPTER VIII.

If Jim Bennett had been purely altruistic when he took Grandma Davis to see the fireworks that night, he was amply repaid when, the old lady safe home again, Charmian followed him to his car and detained him with an impulsive hand on his shoulder.

"It was dear of you, Jim, to give Grandma such a good time," she began ardently. "I don't know how to thank you."

He faced her, and at something in his eyes she dropped the friendly hand that rested on his new, well-fitting coat.

"I don't need any thanks," he said, honestly enough. "Your grandmother's more fun than any one I know—present company excepted. And the shortcake was bully."

"What shortcake? I didn't see you at the church."

He laughed.

Needless Pain!

Nowadays, people take Aspirin for many little aches and pains, and as often as they encounter any pain.

Why not? It is a proven antidote for pain. It works!

And Aspirin tablets are absolutely harmless. You have the medical profession's word for that; they do not depress the heart.

So, don't let a cold "run its course." Don't wait for a headache to "wear off." Or regard neuralgia, neuritis, or even rheumatism as something you must endure. Only a physician can cope with the cause of such pain, but you can always turn to an Aspirin tablet for relief.

Aspirin is always available, and it never fails to help. Familiarize yourself with its many uses, and avoid a lot of needless suffering.
